ARREST AUTO THIEVES

MEN ORGANIZED TO HANDLE
STOLEN AUTOS APPRE-
HENDED IN FRISCO

Several people residing in the vicinity of Lomita and Brand became curious in regard to the stranger who made his headquarters at Colby's Log Cabin real estate office for nearly three weeks.

The man was Detective Whitten of a well known detective agency and he was interested in a certain young woman in West Glendale who was known to be a friend of one of a band of automobile thieves. The detective was keeping watch of the girl thinking the man he was after might come to Glendale or that she might follow him north.

There were four men in the gang and they were well organized to steal and dispose of stolen automobiles. They operated large garages in San Diego, Los Angeles, San Francisco and Seattle. They sold in all $250,000 worth of the stolen machines. Their plan was to steal autos in this vicinity and take them north where they were painted, overhauled and their appearance changed. Those stolen in the north were brought down here and many were disposed of to ranchers in Mexico at a very low price.

Two of the men were followed from Los Angeles to San Francisco two weeks ago where they were arrested. The third man was under surveillance, but the detectives did not wish to make the arrest until they caught him with the fourth who was the capitalist of the company and the one who was interested in the Glendale girl.

Day before yesterday detectives in San Francisco saw the third man with a stranger whom they believed to be the prize they were after. They followed them to a theater where they heard the two address each other by names different from the assumed names they had been using in their business. Following them to a restaurant later they arrested them and thus put an end to one of the best organized bands of thieves that ever operated here.

The garages have all been closed and the men will be tried in San Francisco.

The Glendale lady interested is doubtless congratulating herself that she was not the means of her lover's arrest.

APRIL FOOL FIFE

Last night about ten o'clock a fright came to the residents of West Glendale, most of whom were in bed, as all good people should be at that hour. Just as the first delicious dreams were beginning to steal to weary senses the rude noise of the fire wagons broke the blossom-laden stillness of the night and the big engine with fiercely glaring lights and loudly clanging bell came tearing down Fifth street at a terrific speed seeking the fire. Kimonas and bath robes were hurriedly donned and from each door the frightened citizens ran to see if perchance their roof was burning over their heads. After searching vainly up one street and down another, the department finally located the "fire," which was the small embers of an early evening bonfire, which a pail of water would have easily extinguished.

Perhaps it was an April Fool joke. Anyway the people and the fire department all returned home not much the worse for wear and all greatly relieved that there had been no conflagration.

SONG BIRDS AT HIGH SCHOOL

The Robbinnette club of Glendale formed by twelve girls of the younger set with excellent voices, under the direction of Mrs. Norma Rockhold Robbins, will give its initial concert on the evening of April 13 at the High School auditorium. The uniform costume is a dainty pink frock made in colonial fashion. Some surprises in costumes and selections are promised.

Assisting the club are Miss Blanche Fowler, reader; Miss Rachel Smith, soprano; Miss Guelph McQuinn, pianist; Mrs. Maud McChesney Snow, pianist; Mrs. Wanda Robertson, soprano, and Miss Earline Lancaster, contralto, use the entire second part with a thirty-minute one-act cycle in costume and dramatic action, Miss Lancaster taking the part of the oriental lover.

The stage is no better than the masses of the people dictate that it shall be by the way they dispose of their patronage. If they want clean, wholesome theatricals let them patronize only the clean in drama. The clean theater cannot live on good will and approval alone. It must have the income ducats.

IN FINANCIAL WORLD

FINANCIAL LETTER OF THE AN-GLO & LONDON PARIS NA-TIONAL BANK

(Contributed to the News by the BANK OF GLENDALE)

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., April 1, 1915.—In respect to local and state finances, conditions remain as they have been for some months past. The demand for money for commercial and industrial purposes is not active and the surplus of bank reserves over legal requirements is large. The federal reserve bank finds a scarcity of paper eligible for rediscount or purchase and at the date of its latest published statement but 14.95 per cent of its resources were productively employed. In the building trades the majority of new construction is for residence work. To obtain large loans for improvement purposes the business property offered must be exceptionally attractive and centrally located. Of course improvement has not stopped, but it is not active. The attendance at the exposition is large and clearings begin to show the effect of disbursements in that connection, but some retailers complain that our local people are spending their money on the attractions of the exposition instead of renewing their wardrobes and furnishing up their homes.

The export trade in food stuffs and forage from this port seems to be limited only by the tonnage available and a rapidly increasing passenger traffic is helping to make good to the rail carriers their loss by diversion of freight to the sea route. The season has thus far been very favorable to crops and it is not impossible that we shall have a record crop year. In any case a good crop year is assured. The reorganization of several semi-speculative land and other enterprises of some importance is proceeding slowly and will involve some loss to original investors. The locators and operators of oil wells on land recently decided not to be open to location are making their adjustments with the government. The aggregate of the amounts involved is large, but is divided among a great number of individuals and companies. In spite of efforts to restrict output of oil to the present needs of the market the surplus gradually increases. An increased price of copper is enabling the Shasta district mines to resume and extend operations. Present indications are for a large fruit crop and a very prosperous year is expected by the beet sugar industry.

Conditions in this state are substantially like those elsewhere in the country. The war is affecting us profoundly in many ways. It is increasing the prosperity of sections and communities whose products are in demand for food or for war purposes, and of which deliveries can be made, and injuring others. A great reduction of imports from Europe, as compared with those of the previous year, for the first seven months of the war period, with little if any reduction in exports if we include those reaching the allies through Canada, has produced a large trade balance in our favor from that continent. As we do not need the gold we are not pressing for payment and Europe apparently prefers to pay high exchange rates rather than to ship it. There are, however, moderate importations for account of European countries aggregating, since January 1, some $42,400,000. There is also a steady sale of American securities on the New York market for foreign account which are easily absorbed at prevailing low prices. A loan of $15,000,000 to Switzerland has also helped to sustain European exchange which, however, and especially exchange on continental centers, remain abnormally low.

Our imports from continents other than Europe are running about as usual, but exports to those continents are much below normal. Some progress is being made in arrangements for making payments arising from transactions with neutral countries in dollar exchange instead of London drafts. The movement of grain and war material to Europe at high prices is very nearly offsetting the loss by a restricted movement of cotton at low prices. Unless exports of cotton to Europe are still further checked by the later policies of the belligerents, cotton growers will apparently market about three-fourths of their record crop at prices which, while low, will enable the cotton states to pull through without great discomfort.

There is no doubt that the better feeling in business continues, but it is mainly as yet a continuation of expectation. Some industries are prosperous—the automobile industry for example, and the production of explosives; and some concerns are prosperous when the industry is not. (Continued on Page 4)

NORTH GLENDALE

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL NOTES
FROM FOOTHILL SECTION OF GLENDALE

Mrs. E. A. Josselyn and daughter, Miss Blanche, of 1641 Ruth street, also Mrs. Charles H. Josselyn spent Thursday in Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Bierbower of 930 Fairview avenue entertained at a beautifully appointed dinner party very recently complimentary to Mr. and Mrs. Richard Goddard of Los Angeles who celebrated their thirty-first wedding anniversary at that time. Roses and ferns were intermingled to decorate the attractive home and a full course dinner was served to ten guests, all from Los Angeles, all of whom extended the heartiest congratulations to the favored honorees.

Mrs. B. J. Lyons and little son, Master John, of 1617 Ruth street were the guests of Mrs. Lyons's mother, Mrs. J. Mayer, of Angeleno Heights last Tuesday.

Mrs. Oliver E. Wright of 1649 Ruth street was the guest of Mr. Wright's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Wright of Rosberry avenue, Florence, the early part of the week.

Mr. Howard P. Alston of West Twenty-ninth street, Los Angeles, was in North Glendale last Wednesday calling upon his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Alston of Valley View road, and former neighbors while here.

Mrs. Oliver Loomis of La Salle avenue is the guest of her cousin, Mrs. I. C. Rice of 1632 Ruth street, today.

Mrs. S. C. Bierbower of 930 Fairview avenue entertained the Wednesday Afternoon Five Hundred club of Los Angeles last Wednesday. Beautiful purple iris and white lilies were used for decorations, and a dainty course luncheon was served by the gracious hostess at high noon. Covers were laid for twelve, the full membership of the club. After luncheon cards, music and social conversation whiled away a very delightful afternoon by the favored guests.

There was a good attendance of North Glendale people at the special service at the West Glendale M. E. church to hear Dr. Soper speak on Parables last evening.

BIRTHDAY SURPRISE

A most delightful birthday surprise was that given by Mrs. John Barrows of 443 West Colorado boulevard on Thursday for her nephew, Dean Lockwood. The young man was very satisfactorily surprised and a fine afternoon was enjoyed by himself and guests playing various games in which all the prizes were April fools. After an hour of hard playing they were ready for the delicious refreshments, served at a table all in pink and white, with a big candle-light birthday cake occupying the place of honor. Great quantities of pink Cherokee roses made the rooms bowers of beauty in which the happy afternoon was enjoyed by Dean Lockwood, Steve Beebe, Harold Buey, Chauncey Kolts, Lawrence Varney, Evelyn Raynolds, Ethel Kennedy, Dorothy Hutchinson, Edna Farmer and Anna Barrows.

MRS. RICHARDSON VICTIM

Another birthday surprise, which was really a surprise, was that given on Thursday evening for Mrs. W. C. B. Richardson of the Atwater tract by a number of friends and relatives, who brought overflowing baskets of good things to eat and spread the table at seven, a big candle-light birthday cake being among the gifts, as well as many beautiful flowers, chiefly jonquils, which were placed about the rooms, giving them a beautiful spring like appearance. Among those who enjoyed the pleasant evening were Mrs. O. S. Richardson, Miss Grace Richardson, Mrs. Cameron Johnson of Richmond, Va., Mrs. Alexander Zeese and Miss Emily Zeese, Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Richardson and Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Richardson.

GLENDALE CENSUS IMPORTANT

Glendale is a growing city and that being the case it is not practical for her citizens to rely solely upon the ten-year official census as taken under the direction of the government.

Glendale has more than doubled her population since the 1910 census, and now since this year is the half way mark between the 1910 and 1920 official census years it seems fitting to have the people of Glendale enumerated as nearly accurately as possible. What organization of the city should be held responsible for the taking of the 1915 census?

HEARING FROM HOME

TELL YOUR REPRESENTATIVE
HOW YOU WANT STATE'S BUSINESS DONE

Maybe you do not know it but it helps a whole lot when the legislators "hear from the folks at home." Put your self in the place of your senator or assemblyman for a little while and you will find there is a great difference between being "on the outside looking in and on the inside looking out."

There are 120 members in both houses, 80 in the assembly and 40 in the senate. Each member came with probably from one to half a dozen or more measures in which his district is particularly interested. In addition to these hundreds of others measures are introduced "by request." In all there are nearly 3000 bills, constitutional amendments and joint and concurrent resolutions. Few if any of the members had any knowledge of the bills that were to be introduced other than their own. All measures are referred to committees and those committees listen to arguments for and against as a jury listens to the arguments of attorneys, and then recommend for or against the bills or "let them die in committee." If there is no opposition the committee hears the argument of the proponent of the bill and then decides. There are so many angles, so many interests, industries and professions affected that it is difficult for a legislator to decide, single handed, what is best for the state at large.

There is no hint of "boodles" or "suck" in the present body. On the contrary there is every indication that the majority is working from an earnest conviction, right or wrong as you view it. The majority, apparently, wants to do what is right, but where men have to think so quickly on so many measures it is not within the limits of human reason for all to decide right every time, especially where they have been working from 9 o'clock in the morning until midnight and after, either on the floor or in committee.

There is where you may help.

You chaps out there in the fields, orchards, mills, mines and factories can think over these measures while you work. Your public library has a file of the bills, or, better still, your chamber of commerce or board of trade has a digest of all important measures affecting the agricultural and industrial interests. Drop in there and read over the digest the next time you are in town, then write your legislator from your viewpoint. The opinion of an organized body, however, will have greater weight than the individual and advice or suggestions from your chamber of commerce, board of trade or other commercial and civic bodies will have its influence.

How many of you have dropped in on the editor of your paper and threshed out the important measures in order that the editor may get an idea of the consensus of opinion and how many editors have put the senator and assemblyman from their districts on their mailing lists during the session? The weekly newspaper is a full and complete letter from home; these legislators in Sacramento are your neighbors, they want to do the best they can for your interests. Why not advise with them and let them know what you want?

The trouble with you is that you think the country is too big for you to handle. That is sheer nonsense; you built it and it is no bigger than you are. This great big republic was built by the gatherings in the country school houses, around the stove or on the porch of the country store, in the country newspaper offices and by neighbors talking across their field fences and it was those fellows who shouldered their guns and went forward at the double when Uncle Sam made the high sign for help.

You built this Ship of State and time has only seasoned its staunch timbers. If you have any idea that the old craft is getting unseaworthy get rid of that idea at once. If she yaws, broaches to or fails to sail as close to the wind as she should you are to blame. You have failed to keep a good lookout or a full watch on deck to handle the sails. Whoever is at the wheel can't take his eyes from the compass; it is you who must look out for squalls and breakers ahead and give him his course.

Take the non-partisan bill, the bill doing away with all political parties in state elections and which passed the assembly by a vote of forty-eight to thirty-one after a continuous session of eighteen hours with only an hour off for lunch. The writer talked with a number of assemblymen after the vote and not one "had heard from home." Each voted his opinion, an opinion formed (Continued on Page 4)

TROPICO NEWS NOTES

IMPORTANT CLUB MEETING—
YOUNG PEOPLE VISIT
IMLER CAMP

Low cut bowls and baskets overflowing with golden hued poppies, yellow nasturtiums and French margolds very artistically adorned the home of Mrs. E. Leslie Eames, corner of Tenth and Brand boulevard, yesterday when Mrs. Eames, assisted by Mrs. Samuel A. Pollock, Mrs. Henry T. Goodwin, Mrs. Karl E. Hollingsworth and Mrs. H. H. Tisdale, entertained the Tropico Thursday Afternoon club.

The business session, presided over by Mrs. Charles A. Barker, club president, was most interesting. The club voted to purchase all of the Tropico Library Building association stock from the various individuals who hold any stocks, thus giving the club the exclusive ownership of the entire stock. It was also voted that the club retain the name of Tropico Library Building association and to not incur the expense of incorporating under any other name, as the Tropico Library Building association is a legally incorporated organization.

Reports of the recent convention of Woman's clubs held in Long Beach were read by Mrs. H. C. Woolsey and Miss Cora Hickman, delegates.

Owing to illness Mrs. Jessica C. Hazzard of Whittier was unable to be present and give her talk on "The First Aids to a Housekeeper," as had been announced previously and Mrs. Harry Bowman, chairman of the program committee, presented instead one of the most interesting as well as delightful programs that has been given this club year.

Miss Bertha Jackson of Glendale, who but recently arrived from Kentucky, and who is a most clever and remarkable reader, delighted the club by giving two well-selected readings, the first being two scenes from "The Rivals," and the second a negro dialect reading, for which Miss Jackson is famous. This charming reader endeavored herself to her audience by the gracious manner in which she responded and aided the club in her delightful manner. Senior Mario David, tenor of the Los Angeles Symphony, who possesses a most charming personality as well as a superior tenor voice, rendered in a most delightful manner in Spanish "Lolita" and "Rigoletto" (Verdi).

Senior David was accompanied by Miss Helen Morgan, a member of the club, and who is a most accomplished pianist. Miss Morgan's excellent interpretations of the difficult selections given by Senior David was most keenly appreciated by her many friends and admirers.

Long after the close of the program and the serving of the refreshing ices and other delicious dainties the guests were loath to depart until Senior David and Miss Morgan again each gave a number.

It was indeed a merry and happy party of young people whom Mrs. David H. Imler chaperoned to Sycamore canyon yesterday to spend the day at her son, Eugene Imler's, camp.

Monday morning Eugene Imler and several friends, Albert Smith of Los Angeles, Herbert Berteaux of Hollywood, Harris Roake and Burna Martin of Tropico left for the Imler camp to spend the vacation week. The quietude of this delightful camp was broken yesterday by Mrs. Imler and her merry party, who arrived early and enjoyed a delightful day under the wide spreading branches of the oak and sycamore trees which surround the camp. The boys in camp had prepared a most delicious dinner which was enjoyed by the hungry party whom Mrs. Imler chaperoned and who were Misses Catherine Phillips, Ernestine Lyon, Florence Heacock, Evangeline Hunchberger, Margaret Boucher, Esther Schremp, Juanita Emery, Dorothy Hunt and Marjorie Imler, Messrs. Edwin Heacock and Allen Pollock.

The ways and means committee of the Tropico Thursday Afternoon club, of which Mrs. W. H. Bullis is chairman, will give a card party at G. A. R. hall Friday evening, April 9.

HEALTH FOODS

That there is business to be gotten through legitimate and judicial advertising is evident from the good results the Glendale Sanitarium has been getting by advertising their health foods in the Evening News. A few months ago the sanitarium management established a retail store of health foods, and now the popularity of this concern has grown to such an extent that the weekly sales of merchandise is quite an item. The entrance to the store is at the side of the sanitarium building facing Isabel street.

WAR IN AMERICA

ELBERT HUBBARD PRESENTS
SOME TRUTHS IN REGARD TO MILITARISM

America today is in less danger of being attacked by a foreign foe than she has been in one hundred years. Just now the fighting men of the world are very much occupied.

Militarism is slowly, surely committing suicide.

The whole world is sick of war—especially those who are in it up to their celluloid collars. They would all get out of it if they possibly could and save their faces.

Lifting the lid off of hell was a terrific and costly blunder. Who was the most to blame is not the question. All Europe was in it. Let them apportion the disgrace. The best thought of the world today is turned toward disarmament. These vast killing machines and aggregations of men organized for murder token the age of the Pterodactyl and Ichthyosaurus.

Nature's animals once had terrific arrays of teeth, claws, beaks, and carried on their backs a protection that was Zeppelin-proof. So long as these terrific animals existed, there was no place for man.

And there will never be a really first-class race of men as long as wealth and science co-operate for killing purposes. Gradually things have modified and refined themselves until we find that the unseen is more powerful than the seen. Thought is supreme. The world is ruled by sentiment. Beauty, romance, poetry, blend into a harmonious whole, and we have the world of business—and business is the science of human service.

And yet we find the strange anachronism of the best ingenuity of man being utilized to invent instruments of death and destruction.

Well does President Wilson take the stand that this is no time for Americans to "mobilize." It is for us to show the world the truth. "Thrice armed is he who knows his cause is just."

President Wilson's attitude in standing firm and not giving way to the hysteria of demagogues, representing press and politics, is eminently wise, right, excellent, and altogether lovely. The president's action will go down in history to the eternal credit of Woodrow Wilson.

Let this be carved on his monument: "He set his face firmly against the transplantation of Kruppity into America."

We are a peaceful people, and the way we can manifest our peaceful proclivities and prove to the world that we are what we are, is by following our regular occupations and not increasing our armament—especially in view of the fact that the expression, "Preparedness for war spells peace," has been found to be futile and fallacious.

It is our proud boast that along three thousand miles of frontier between Canada and the United States no soldiers are stationed. Unfortunately, at the present moment this is not exactly true.

There is a little squad of soldiers at Fort Erie, opposite Buffalo, recently placed there to guard against a possible "Germanic invasion."

Just the other day two peaceful duck hunters in a boat on the Niagara river were shot to death by Canadian soldiers on the shore.

It was all just a matter of "Preparedness." Greenhorn soldiers, filled with the war spirit, ignorant but zealous, seeing the two men in a skiff armed with shotguns, scented danger. They were boys of the bulldog breed, and had had it drilled into them that England expects every man to do his duty.

So they saw their duty—"and they done it."

And two fine young men who were out for a duck dinner went to their death, and there was crape on the door of two modest little cottages in the city of Buffalo. So much for preparedness.

The incident is trivial, comparatively, save to the families involved, but the moral is obvious; for there were men in Buffalo who stated boldly that if they could get their hands on a few highpower rifles they would answer those Canadian soldiers shot for shot. And there you are!

President Wilson is right. And men and women who prize peace and hate war, who love their homes, their families, their country, and who realize that production, transportation and distribution spell civilization—these people are one with the sentiments of President Wilson when he says: "Less armament rather than more! And when all Europe has hysterics, we had better not quit farms and factories and prepare to fight." —Elbert Hubbard.

DOGS AT THE MOVIES

That dogs can see and understand picture plays is undoubtedly true. While living in England I had various friends try out their pets, with the results recorded here. In a north of England town there is a dog that does not flinch or appear bored at seeing such things as murders, massacres, travelers strangled by apes, arson, lynchings, galloping horses, express trains, floods, earthquakes or pistols. This canine apparently regards them as silly folk doing silly things.

But if this dog views a film of a fox hunt, a menagerie, or a scene with dogs in it, he gets highly excited and barks loud and long. Once he managed to get "behind" at a movie theater after a leopard film had been shown, as he wanted to meet the big cat in the flesh.

A picture that moved him to fury was one of a man who grew horns and butted after drinking a glass of goat's milk.

On another occasion he went almost mad with joy at seeing an Irish colleen being presented with a little pig by her lover.

Not so long ago an entertainment was arranged for prize-bred dogs, the films used being animal ones. In the audience were three mastiffs, a bull terrier, a bulldog, an Irish terrier, two great Danes and two fox terriers. All the dogs did was to walk up and down and look at it, almost on the verge of tears through being so bored. They seemed to say, "We know all about that." For it was clear that they could tell that the dogs on the film were not with them in the flesh. But when they saw an elephant walking it made them excited. They calmed down after a closer inspection, but the bull terrier threatened to attack the elephant while the two Danes barked loudly.—Our Dumb Animals.

The Bethlehem Steel company, for example, has added largely to its surplus, while the United States Steel lost over $16,000,000 last year. And some textile manufacturers are doing well. It is usually a matter of war contracts. Railroads are beginning to feel the benefit of such increases of rates as have been granted and to a very small extent are increasing their purchases, but the number of idle cars on March 1 was 303,987 as against 153,907 on the same date in 1914 and a normal for the month of some 50,000 to 60,000 cars. If we take unemployment for the basis and assume an average of 10 per cent as normal—which is substantially correct—and take Massachusetts as a typical industrial state we find that on March 1 eighteen per cent of organized labor was unemployed. It is not generally realized that such an increase in unemployment represents the difference between good times and soup houses. This is because unemployment is never evenly distributed. While the average in Massachusetts on March 1 was 18 per cent, in some cities of that state it was from 33 to 36 per cent and in some industries from 50 to 53 per cent. If we take bank clearings as a basis we find that while from 1905 to 1913 inclusive the average annual increase of clearings outside New York City was in round numbers $3,000,000,000, with no actual decrease except in 1908, there was a falling off in 1914 as compared with 1913 of $4,000,000,000 or 3.9 per cent and of 2 tenths of 1 per cent for the first six months. Of course the war has added greatly to our trouble and it is not possible to draw a line between the effects of the war and of domestic conditions.

Nevertheless these conditions do not in the least change the general and confident belief that radical changes for the better are impending because that conviction is based on evidence that the public at large is beginning to realize that it is neither good morals nor good policy to visit misdeeds of individuals upon great enterprises with which they are connected or to discourage enterprise and investment by placing all large undertakings under suspicion, harassing them with investigations on the chance of finding something evil, and absorbing the energies of our ablest men in proving that they are not misdeeds, and are entitled to earn profits in proportion to their risks.

FRIGHTFUL MASSACRE

TABRIZ (Persia) Wednesday, March 31 (via Petrograd, April 1, 11:20 a. m., and via London, 2:25 p. m.)—Preceding the reoccupation by the Russians of Salma Plains, in Azerbaijan province, northwest of Urumiah, hundreds of native Christians were rounded up by the Turks in the village of Hafedwan and massacred. Many of these were searched from the homes of friendly Mohammedans who tried to hide them.

The Russians on entering the village found 720 bodies, mostly naked and mutilated. The recovery of bodies from wells, pools and ditches and their burial keep 300 men busy for three days.

The wailing of women intensified the horror of the scene. Surviving widows, who were able to identify the bodies of their husbands, insisted upon digging graves and burying the bodies. Some of the victims had been shot. In other cases they were bound to ladders and their heads, protruding through, were hacked off, eyes were gouged out and limbs chopped off.

A general massacre of the 10,000 or 15,000 Christians remaining in Urumiah is expected unless averted by orders from Constantinople.

Verbal messages from Urumiah confirm early reports that more than 800 persons already have been killed in that neighborhood, and that more than 2000 have died of disease. These messages also confirm the reports of the maltreatment of the Rev. E. T. Allen, an American missionary of Urumiah, formerly of Portland, Ore.

IOWA FARMERS WILL BUY 50,000 CARS THIS YEAR

Iowa farmers contributed $1,000,000,000 to the general wealth of the great Hawkeye state as a result of the bumper crops of 1914, and the boast is made and not questioned that the state's pocketbook could show $8,000,000,000 on appraisal, taking into account its rich farm lands, its livestock and its manufacturing interests. Its wealth per capita, figuring on farm wealth alone, is $1682, while a rough estimate would give the complete returns at least $3500 per head.

Evidently Iowa's middle name is Prosperity, and because of these evidences of wealth it would not seem impossible that the Hawkeyes will buy at least 50,000 cars during the present year, a careful estimate that has been made by Secretary of State Allen, who takes a keen interest in motoring affairs and is justly proud of the fact that Iowa ranks sixth in the United States in the ownership of cars.

And it is because of this great prosperity, tangible and not imaginary that the 1500 dealers who attended the sixth annual Des Moines automobile show last week went home elated over the prospects. Des Moines alone will distribute at least 20,000 1915 cars throughout the territory controlled by the city, it is estimated.

KING AGAINST ALCOHOL

LONDON, April 2.—The king's action has solved the liquor question as with a stroke of a pen, was the declaration made today by temperance leaders in Glasgow. There is some justification for it in the news from that city, which has an unenviable record for drunkenness.

Ship yard workers are refusing to enter public houses. Little or no liquor was called for today in restaurants and clubs, and tea rooms were crowded. These facts showed that the king's appeal has made a great impression everywhere.

His majesty's lead has been followed quickly by Lord Kitchener, the war secretary, who has issued instructions that, during the war, alcoholic drink is not to be used in his household.

The inference is that, whatever the outcome of the contemplated restrictive measures, the king has laid the foundation of a great voluntary movement, which will achieve far reaching results, through the force of the royal example.

It can scarcely be doubted that Lloyd George favors total prohibition and the king's action suggests that his majesty heartily approves the attitude of the chancellor, according to the unwritten constitution of the country. The king is above law, but his majesty is anxious to show that in this matter, whatever legislation or other measures may be adopted in order to deal with one of the most pressing needs of the nation he is not desirous of asserting the privileges of his august position. As Lord Stamfordham's memorable letter says, "No difference shall be made so far as his majesty is concerned between the treatment of the rich and the poor in this question."

It is interesting to recall that the last occasion on which an English leader sought to exercise his influence in the direction of temperance by publicly taking the pledge was when Gen. Sir Ian Hamilton declared that, as an example to the army, he would touch no alcoholic drink for a period of twelve months.

It is predicted here by some American merchants that large quantities of wines and liquors will be sent soon to America.

Millions of dollars worth of wines and whisky, being kept for maturity, may seek the American market, as well as great quantities of champagne.

American imports of distilled spirits, wines and malt liquors, in 1914, amounted to $19,000,000 approximately; but if prohibition be instituted here, which is looked for during the war, and possibly afterward, American imports will be greatly swollen.

It was learned today that the stock of some breweries and distilleries already were dropping heavily. It is not believed here that grog will be removed from the navy rations, so the American grape juice naval edict may not be imitated.

A very martial young giant who joined a Welsh regiment amused his comrades by throwing out his chest and saying, "Now for the Germans." He impressed upon them that it was a bad day for Kaiser Wilhelm when he was induced to join the army, and his new comrades duly took note. The day after he enlisted he received a telegram from London. "Heartiest congratulations—Kitchener." Bursting with pride the new recruit handed the message round, but his joy was boundless when later in the day came a second message: "The empire is proud of you—George." The next morning, however, came a third telegram: "For God's sake keep neutral—Wilhelm." And the proud warrior began to suspect that jokers were about. The third message was not shown round.

PICK UP THE TWINE STRINGS
By Edna A. Andrews.
While walking along the streets of a city a short time ago an elegantly dressed woman with a patrician face and a stately bearing stooped suddenly and picked up a twine string, which she rolled carefully around her fingers and tucked into her handbag. She then explained to a puzzled passerby that she was neither a demented nor so penurious that she felt it necessary to save every scrap of string, but that she did it for the protection of the little birds which would soon be nesting.

Being interested in the little songsters, the woman has rescued in years past innumerable birds which had become entangled in the strings they had carried from the streets to weave in their nests. Many had broken legs, some were dead, and others were rescued uninjured. Strings seem to attract the birds, but are dangerous material for their nests, as the sharp little bird claws become tangled in the strings and the bird's legs are so easily broken.

From the acts of thoughtfulness of that one woman a movement was started in that city whereby all school children looked constantly for strings on their way to school and about their play for a week, which cleared the place of objectionable twine and assured a safe nesting vicinity for the birds.—Dumb Animals.

under varying conditions; some because they believed in the bill; others, rumor has it, because they believed it would aid in securing the passage of bills in which their districts were interested. The bill will probably go to a referendum after its passage by the senate as it is the opinion of the assembly minority that a majority of the state's voters will "hold by the blood of their clan" and that at least two political parties are absolutely essential for the safety of the state.

Our history, since 1776, shows that whenever the majority "got busy" and thought it generally thought right. You are one of that majority, now get busy and think and give the men who are trying to legislate for you the benefit of what you think.

DOG TAXES IN THE SOUTH

There is a great difference in the system of dog licenses in the various states. In Virginia the statewide law nets annually $90,000 in taxes, which amount is used for the public schools. In North Carolina only twenty out of the one hundred counties tax dogs. The revenues vary from $515 in one county to $1 in another. A bill was recently offered in the legislature, proposing a state-wide levy of $1 on male and $2 on female dogs, but was so unpopular that it failed of serious consideration. It is said that there are 150,000 dogs in North Carolina, many farmers owning from twelve to twenty-five.

BENEFITS OF DEBATING SOCIETIES

Revival of the old-fashioned debating society is the plan of university-extension workers. Professor Lyman, of the University of Chicago, pays this tribute:

"Your cross roads debating society roughly imperfect, can teach, and does teach men and women to think seriously enthusiastically, happily, and to a certain extent, effectively. This is, I submit, the supreme desideratum of any and all truly educative processes."

The country debating society made its mark upon the boys and girls of past generations. It took timid, stammering George, who got up to debate the question, "Resolved, That there is more pleasure in pursuit than in possession," and who said, "Ladies and gentlemen, I'm not much of a speaker" and proceeded to prove this conclusively—that experience took stammering George and Henry and Ed, Mary and Susan and Elsie, and all the rest of the boys and girls who had the nerve to participate—it took them and stirred the latent powers within them; started them to thinking and made them more careful in the expressing of what they thought; and from that influence came many of the leading orators and writers of the generation of which these debate-trained youth were a part. It would be a blessing to this country if these old debating societies and the old-time spelling schools were revived.—Pasadena Star.

KILL THE WEEDS

The season of the year is at hand when all vegetation grows rapidly, not excepting weeds. Many vacant lots are taking on a green appearance. Were this refreshing color to be on account of the presence of vegetables and flowers we would not have the least objection, but when the green appearance comes from the presence of obnoxious weeds which later on will grow to the size of small trees and produce seeds which will pollute adjoining property, we do think that the time to clear the lots of this undesirable growth is right now.

NEITHER RELIGION OR POLITICS CONSIDERED

To the Editor of the Glendale News.
Dear Sir: A report has been circulated through this city that, in company with two others, I asked Mr. Brockman, candidate for grammar school trustee, to pledge himself not to appoint a Christian Scientist or Catholic as teacher in the schools.

I wish to state that I have no religious prejudices and did not see Mr. Brockman nor make any request of him, directly or indirectly. In fact I have not seen the gentleman for six months.

If I had the appointing of teachers neither politics nor religion would be considered.

Yours very truly,
JOHN W. USILTON.

LINCOLN'S KINDNESS TO ANIMALS

Abraham Lincoln, years before there was any society organized for the protection of animals, wrote an essay on kindness to animals.

In James Morgan's "Life of Abraham Lincoln," we find the following: "Abraham cared nothing for shooting and the one record of his hunting comes from his own pen in after life. 'A few days after the completion of his eighth year,' he wrote of himself, 'in the absence of his father, a flock of wild turkeys approached the log cabin, and Abraham, standing inside with a rifle gun, shot through a crack and killed one of them. He has never since pulled trigger on any larger game.'"

CLEANLINESS CHEAPER

The bureau of animal industry estimates the loss thus far in this country from the recent outbreak of the foot and mouth disease at $3,399,110. We are confident that the filthy conditions under which thousands of animals are kept are responsible for much of the loss due to the diseases from which they suffer. If any one doubts us, let him visit the majority of the sheds, pens and stables where they are housed throughout his state and see what he finds.—Our Dumb Animals.

The Church of the Messiah in New York invited a member of the I. W. W. to deliver an address from the pulpit. Accepting the courtesy the gentleman said: "I feel murder time and time again in my heart. I've come to hate God, to hate all religions, all churches, all society, and to hate you." Seems as though a pulpit might have been put to better use.
